An Excursion through the History of Braunschweig and England

By Prof Klaus Meyer, University of Bath

Bath's twin city of Braunschweig in Northern Germany has a long shared history with England, from Henry the Lion's marriage to the sister of Richard Lionheart in 1168 to the British occupation after 1945. This illustrated talk will take the audience through happy and unhappy marriages, stable and unstable alliances, revolutions and wars to the present day of peaceful collaboration and a twinning partnership with the city of Bath.

The talk will be given in German – with English summaries.

Wednesday, February 16, 2011 at 7:30 for 8:00
